CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

The Seventh Annual Convention of the Centre County Society

HELD AT UNIONVILLE SUNDAY

A Large Attendance and a Most Successful Meeting—Many Interesting Addresses.

A FULL REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS.

One of the largest gatherings ever held by the Christian Endeavor Society in Centre county was their 7th annual convention held at Unionville Saturday and Sunday, August 26th and 27th. It opened at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon in the Presbyterian church at that place

The young people began to gather on Saturday morning and by Saturday evening nearly all had arrived in town, filled full of the power and spirit of God.

The convention was called to order promptly at 2 p. m. by the county president, James A. Pratt. He introduced the first speaker of the day, George Spotts, of Unionville, who spoke on "If ye shall ask anything in my name I will do it." Miss Nannie Fisher, of Unionville, made the address of welcome, which was also very well responded to by G. H. Lichtenthaler, of Philipsburg. A very beautiful piece entitled "The Banner of the Cross" was then sung after which Miss Lulu Griest, of Huntingdon, read a report on "Ideal Committee Work" which was certainly very good and greatly appreciated by all the endeavors gathered, and no doubt much good will be derived from this young lady's report. After the following committees were appointed the afternoon session was brought to a close. Committee on nominations was composed of W. B. Thomas, of Milesburg, Mr. Ebbs, of Loveville and Miss Carrie Weaver, of Bellefonte. Committee on Resolutions, G. H. Lichtenthaler, of Philipsburg; Miss Rose Levy, of Milesburg and Mrs. M. B. Holtzworth, of Unionville.

The evening services began at 7:15 with a lively song and praise service. At 7:35 Rev. J. T. Scott pastor of the Presbyterian church at that place but whose home is in Bellefonte, made an excellent address on the subject of "Stir up the gift that is within you." A very pretty hymn entitled "He is Near" was then sung after which a number of short sentenced prayers were offered. Rev. Newett, pastor of the United Brethren church of Port Matilda, was introduced and made an able address.

After Mr. Newett had spoken a business session was held. Reports from the different county officers and superintendents were heard. Election of officers was then held. J. A. Pratt was elected president, H. B. Heylmun vice president, Miss Nannie Fisher, Rec. secretary and Miss Rose Levy treasurer.

The society at Unionville gave a royal reception to the visiting delegates after the evening session was over.

Probably the best and most interesting meeting during the convention was the "Sun Rise Prayer Meeting" held on Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, led by Miss M. B. Holtzworth. She used for her subject "The Supreme Gift." This meeting seemed to be filled so full of the power of God that during the whole day the endeavors were overflowing with the Holy Spirit, that precious gift from on high.

At 9:00 o'clock the quiet hour service was held and led by that soul stirring speaker G. H. Lichtenthaler, of Philipsburg. At 10:05 the convention sermon was preached by that grand young preacher, Rev. Elmer C. Williams. His subject was "The Attractiveness of Jesus Christ." He handled this subject with such wonderful power that many hearts through the large convention were deeply touched. The afternoon meetings were deeply interesting especially the excellent talks on the "Junior Work," and the "Tenth Legion Work." Rev. Dr. Campbell, of Mt. Union, gave an interesting discourse on the subject of "Christian Endeavors and the Mid-week Service."

At last the best and the closing services of this grand convention was held. At 7:00 o'clock a lively praise service was led by Miss Nannie Fisher, after which two excellent addresses were made by Rev. C. E. Eberman, of Lancaster, and Rev. Luther De Yoe, of Harrisburg. The consecration service followed. This meeting was led by Samuel Taylor, of Bellefonte, and it was one of the most interesting meetings during the convention. Next year the convention will be held in Bellefonte. The following resolutions were read and adopted :

The C. E. societies of Centre county in convention assembled at Unionville, Pa., Aug. 26th and 27th do hereby resolve,

1st. That we urge upon the members of all the societies in this county to join the Tenth Legion or adopt some other way of systematic giving.

2nd. That we look with alarm upon the indifference shown by the members of the most of the societies to the mid-week services held in their churches and urge upon them to attend the same.

3rd. That we fully appreciate the work among the juniors and urge upon each society to try to awaken an interest in this important branch of the C. E. work.

4th. That we urge upon all the societies in the county to do all they can and to use all honorable means at their command for the supression and overthrow of the drink traffic in the county, it being one of the greatest foes if not the very greatest foe that the C. E. army has yet to conquer, and is today the greatest menace to the final triumph of the true principles of Christian Endeavor.

5th. That the true and heartfelt thanks of the members of this convention are hereby extended to all who have in any way aided to make this convention so enjoyable, interesting and successful. We are deeply grateful to all the good people of this place who have kindly opened their homes for the entertainment of delegates. Especially do we thank the officers of the convention for the untiring zeal that they have exhibited for the success of this convention.

Tramps Start a Riot at Howard.

Friday afternoon three hobos created quite an excitement in the quiet little town of Howard by taking possession of the Syracuse House and attempting to run things at that popular hostelry in spite of the objections of landlord Jacob De Haas. They got howling drunk and raised a general disturbance until finally Landlord De Haas with the assistance of citizens succeeded in ejecting them from the house. When on the outside the tramps proceeded to stone the building. A posse of citizens was raised to capture these bold outlaws, but the tramps held their pursuers at bay, pertending to be armed with revolvers, until finally a freight train came along which they jumped, making good their escape as far as Tyrone where they were captured early Saturday morning by Pennsylvania Railroad Detective, James W. Swartzel. They were taken to Howard for a hearing Saturday afternoon after which they were brought to Bellefonte and lodged in jail. They gave their names as J. W. and W. L. Smith of Williamsport, and Henry Grace, of Waverly, N. Y. After they left the hotel it was discovered that they had stolen some clothing and other articles from the house.

The Wedding March.

The Bellefonte Amateur Dramatic club will present to the people of Bellefonte Gilberts bright and pleasing comedy drama "The Wedding March" in Garmans Opera House on Monday evening, September 4th. Rehearsals are going on nightly and the progress being made by the artists warrant the assertion that a delightful and attractive performance is promised the amusement loving people of Bellefonte. The cast is selected from the very best amateur talent in the town. Our citizens have had frequent opportunities in the past to witness the clever and artistic work of our theatrical people and they need no assurance in support of the excellence of the coming event. The costumes to be worn in the play will be elegant and in many instances elaborate, and the stage setting and stage pictures will be arranged with skill and charming effect. Don't forget the day and date, Monday evening, September 4th.

Poor Policy.

We have always esteemed it a sure indication of cowardice to be eternally finding fault with others of the same guild, simply because their ability or past service has rendered them more conspicuous. The man or woman disdains to build a reputation by attempting to destroy the influence or life-work of others, who are more brainy and virtuous than themselves.

Business Men's Picnic.

On account of the Business Men's Picnic this Thursday, August 31st, trains will leave Bellefonte for Hecla Park as follows: 7:10, 8:30, 9:30, 11:00 a. m, 1:15, 2:40, 7:50 and 8:30 p. m.

A special train will leave Milesburg (McCoy & Linn Siding) at 9:00 a. m., and all trains between Bellefonte and Hecla Park will stop at the School House Crossing for the accommodation of Milesburg passengers.

WELCOMED HOME

The Nations Greeting to the Tenth Regiment

THRONGS JOIN IN HEARTY WELCOME

Veterans of Two Wars Parade—Great Ovation to Browned Pennsylvanians from the Philippines.

SWORDS PRESENTED TO OFFICERS.

Pittsburg, Aug. 28.—The sweet strains of "Home Sweet Home," played by a dozen bands, blended with a deafening roar of joyous voices as the brave boys of the Tenth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, entered the gates of this city this afternoon, passing in review before one of the largest gatherings of people ever assembled in grand old Western Pennsylvania. It was a remarkable parade, composed of veterans of two wars and the State militia. Even the most enthusiastic never dreamed that the affair would be one of such sublime magnitude. Though the gallant Tenth boys and escort were over five hours late, enthusiasm was not bedimmed. People waited in line from 8 A. M. until after 4 P. M., when the head of the column appeared. Two young men not satisfied to gaze at the soldiers from ordinary heights, climbed up inside the tower of St. Paul's Cathedral, the highest in the city, and were industriously prying off the slats in the belfry with a crowbar and throwing the pieces down on the crowd. One of the slats struck a little girl, who fainted. This was the first intimation the officers received of the plans of the lads, and a policeman went up inside the tower and forced the boys to capitulate.

They didn't see the perade.

One feature of the reception was the ovation given President McKinley. At times one might easily have imagined the whole demonstration had been arranged in his honor, so warmly was he received by loyal citizens. He rode most of the distance with uncovered head, bowing to right and left, returning the salutations of the people.

The Tenth did not reach Alleghany until 2 P. M. There were joyous and sad scenes. Scores of those gathered about were relatives of the arriving boys, having come from home towns for an early glimpse. Fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, sweethearts and friends of the men pressed forward and embraced the brown-clad men. They were a tired but happy looking lot of soldiers as they stood about, some with arms about mothers' necks, others giving similar greetings to sweethearts; all the centres of little groups. President Kinley, by request, was driven near the point of arrival. He watched the happy scenes with a smiling face. It recalled days of the sixties to him.

At 3 o'clock Brigadier General Charles Miller gave the order to move and, with the appearance of the President, General Merritt and other notables, the line of march was taken up amid a salvo of shouts.

Following General Miller were National Guard officers without commands, including Colonel Hulings, Sixteenth Pennsylvania; Colonel Krepps, Fifteenth Pennsylvania, and others. The following veterans of the Civil War. There was a large representation of men who had not paraded for years. The G. A. R. did not go over the entire route. They executed column right and reviewed the procession at the Pittsburg Court House. Following the G. A. R. came President McKinley and Robert Pitcairn, Major General Wesley Merritt, Mayor W. J. Diehl, Governor Stone and staff, General George B. Snowden and others.

The Provisional Brigade, N. G. P., followed. The First Regiment, Lieutenant Good, had the right. The Fourteenth and Eighteenth Regiments, Battery B. and the service men, Spanish War, came next. Then marched the Tenth men, Lieutenant Colonel Barnett leading. Several soldiers hobbled along.

After the President had reviewed the column he proceeded to the music pavilion, where the exercises were held. Seats had been provided for 25,000 friends and relatives of the members of the "Tenth" in front of the music pavilion, but these were filled long before the exercises began and thousands were unable to secure even standing room within hearing distance.

Addresses were made by President McKinley, Governor Stone General Merritt, and others and finally after a sumptous dinner the boys were dismissed.

THAT prosperity is coming is plainly indicated by the following market quotations:—New wheat, 63cts. per bushel! Get out of the way, farmers, or the wave may knock your over.

Pumpkins and Parasites.

A correspondent of The Breeder's Gazette says: Pumpkins seem large missiles to throw at the small parasites that infest sheep. Yet I believe them very effective instruments in eradicating certain forms of parasites from the flock. During the past summer our ewe flock did not thrive as I wished it to. The grass was abundant, but the stomach worm and doubtless other forms of worm life abounded. In the fall the ewes were in but tolerable flesh and seemed rather listless and droopy. When pumpkins ripened, I began feeding them in quantities. I did not remove the seeds nor did I limit the amount that they ate. Entire loads were hauled out at one time and scattered about the pastures and renewed when eaten up.

Cattle Thieves Arrested.

Constable Al. Lucas, of Snow Shoe, made two important arrests at North Bend Friday. The parties were John Fye and George Fye, two brothers. They were taken before Squire Brown and held under $500 bail for a further hearing. They are alleged to be part of a gang of hustling cattle thieves that have been operating in the vicinity of Snow Shoe for the past two years. Farmers and coal min n that locality have been missing cattle and no trace could be found of them until Constable Lucas took the case in hand.

The Brewers Win.

Governor Stone has granted a charter to the Stroudsburg Brewing company. This ends a most bitter fight against the brewers which was led by the preachers of Stroudsburg, who made personal attacks from the pulpit. The Christian Temperance Union for weeks made daily prayers that Governor Stone would not grant the charter.

IN THE TEMPLE OF JUSTICE

Cases Disposed Of at the August Term of Court.

JUDGE JOHN G. LOVE PRESIDING

The List of Cases to be Tried Was Not Large—Proceedings Up to Wednesday Noon.

FROM OUR SPECIAL COURT REPORTER

We are indebted to W. Harrison Walker, Esq., of the law firm of Fortney & Walker, for the following very excellent report of the court proceedings :

The regular term of August court began Monday morning Aug. 28, at 9:30 o'clock with Hon. John G. Love, President J[illegible] on the bench. The list of criminal [illegible] is quite small as well as the list [illegible] cases in the nature of appeals [illegible] decisions of the Justices of th[illegible] in the County.

The greater part of the [illegible]noon session was occupied in the hearing of motions and petitions in the several cases, presented by the members of the Bar.

The list of Grand Jurors was then called by M. I. Gardner, Prothonotary, and took their places at the left of the Box, and John C. Henderson, farmer, of Huston township, was selected and sworn as "foreman." Upon receiving the usual explanatory and instructive charge by the Court, they retired to their room to consider the bills of indictment and report on the same.

The Constables of the several Boroughs and Townships were then called, at which time the usual quarterly returns were made to the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Edmund Blanchard, Esq., who recently was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law school, was admitted to practice law in the several Courts of Centre County. Mr. Blanchard is a well educated young man, and has the necessary energy and ambition to carry into execution such knowledge. He is of a studious turn of mind and we predict for him a successful future in his chosen profession.

Wm. L. Hicks, Esq., District Attorney of Blair County and Richard Williamson, Esq., of the Huntingdon County Bar, were present and participated in the general business of our Courts.

Attorney Lichtenthaler, of Philipsburg, was also in attendance upon Court.

The Chairman of the Committee on "Attorneys Fee Bill" for Centre Co., stated that the Committee was ready to report, but owing to the fact that all the members of the Bar were not present deferred the same until later in the week.

Court adjourned to 1:30 p. m.

MONDAY 1:30 P. M.

Court called at 1:30. The following cases were then disposed of—M. Shires vs. E. H. Auman and Emma L. Auman. Appeal, Pleas—"Non Assumpsit." Verdict for defendant.

Geo. K. Baker et al. executors of etc., vs. William E. McBath, admr's. of etc.,—Sci, Fa. Sur mortgage. Plea "Nil Debit." By agreement verdict was rendered in favor of plaintiff in sum of $1,006.46.

Commonwealth vs. John Suhey. Assault with intent to commit rape. Defendant found not guilty but ordered to pay all costs.

Commonwealth vs. Harry Korman, prosecutor Geo. T. Bush. Indicted for Larceny. Defendant plead "Not Guilty" but changed his plea promptly to that of "Guilty," whereupon the Court sentenced him to pay a fine of $1.00 and undergo imprisonment in the Huntingdon Reformatory, at Huntingdon, according to the rules and regulations of said institution.

Court adjourned at 4:35 p. m., to 9 a. m., Tuesday.

TUESDAY, 9 A. M.

W. H. Musser, guardian of, etc., vs. Harry Curtin, administrator of, etc. This was a scire facias to revive a judgment against the defendant. Plea entered "nil debit." Amount due agreed upon was $508.30, and verdict of the jury in that amount was rendered.

Same vs. Same. Verdict in favor of plaintiff in sum of $667.82.

Wm. S. Brooks vs. Overseers of Spring township. Plea "non assumpsit." This was an appeal from the report of Messrs. Gentzel, Johnson and Hunter, auditors of Spring township. Jury rendered a verdict in favor of defendant.

Commonwealth vs. James Martin; indicted for f. and b., prosecutrix Merty Ammerman; defendant convicted.

Com. vs. Sophie Kowas, Rosa Nagg, Alex. Dudes and Charles Pentick; indicted for adultery and unlawful cohabitation. Bill ignored by the grand jury and John Kowas and Steiff Nagg directed to pay the costs.

Com. vs. Alex. Dudes and Charles Pentick; indicted for adultery and escaping board bill. Bill ignored by grand jury and John Kocsic, prosecutor, directed to pay the costs.

Com. vs. Wm. Wantz; indicted for malicious mischief; prosecutor, L. Bathurst. Bill ignored by the grand jury and county directed to pay the costs.

Com. vs. Wm. Harpster; indicted for assault and battery with intent, etc.; prosecutrix Mrs. Annie Price. Bill ignored by the grand jury and county directed to pay the costs.

Court adjourned to 2 p. m.

Court called Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The grand jury reported on several bills after which the case of Com. vs. D. H. Bean was called. This defendant was indicted for false pretense, the prosecutor [illegible] of Bellefonte The [illegible] in memory. Wearing [illegible] excess and indiscretion[illegible]ut as follows : On [illegible] business or marriage [illegible] at the seat of [illegible], 18, 1897, the defen[illegible] and bloc[illegible]o Bellefonte to purchase a to r[illegible]. He called to see S. H. Diehl and made a contract for a certain buggy at a fixed price there agreed upon. Mr. Bean induced Mr. Diehl to accept his note at four months in the sum of $38, asserting and assuring him that he was the owner in fee simple of a certain farm or property upon which he was then living, and that he was good financially. Upon these representations Mr. Diehl agreed to sell the buggy and accepted said note. When the note in question became due and payable Mr. Diehl demanded payment, but Mr. Bean refused, and upon such refusal an execution was issued. It was then learned that Mr. Bean was not the owner of the farm upon which he lived, as the records evidenced the fact that that certain tract of land had been sold prior to the purchase of the buggy to Jennie M. Wilson for the price or sum of $5,000. The defendant swore positively that he never made the statement in reference to his ownership of the land or farm upon which he was living but stated that he owned (and told Mr. Diehl at the time of purchase) real estate, and in fact this was proven by records from Allegheny county. The jury, later in the evening, rendered a verdict of not guilty and directed the defendant, D. H. Bean, to pay all costs.

The case of Com. vs. Samuel Styers was then called; indicted for an indecent assault upon Gertrude Eisenhuth.

Court adjourned to 9 a. m. Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

In the above case the Court stated to the jury that the evidence produced was insufficient to warrant a verdict of "guilty" and directed a return of "not guilty." The jury rendered a verdict of "not guilty" and directed the prosecutrix to pay the costs.

Com. vs. George Boop, charge larceny. Verdict guilty. Sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

Com. vs. Jacob Walk; charged with assault and battery. Found guilty and sentenced to pay $25.00 fine and undergo 20 days' imprisonment in jail.

Shot His Playmate.

Lancaster, Aug. 28.—At the home of Frank Greulich, a Traction Company motorman, at Columbia, this morning, a girl of seven years was instantly killed by a tot a year her junior.

The victim was little Carrie Resh, daughter of John Resh a neighbor of the Greulich's. It was the habit of the child to play with the Greulich children, George and Martha, and this morning she came as usual. Mrs. Greulich, being busy, told Carrie to join the children at play in another room. In a few minutes the mother was startled by a sharp revolver report coming from the room where the children were at play, followed by the appearance of little Carrie at the door, with blood streaming from the wound on her breast. Before she could reach her, the girl fell on the floor and soon expired.

An examination revealed the fact that a ball had entered the child's body in the back coming out at the left breast, passing through the heart. Young George Gruelich was questioned by his mother as to what had happened. He said Carrie had pounded on a piece of lead what they found and it went off. His parents did not believe the little fellow's tale, and after further questioning, he told how he had found a loaded revolver in a drawer and had deliberately aimed it at Carrie's back and pulled the trigger. A Coroner's jury exonerated the boy from all blame, on account of his age.

Postoffice Hours To-day.

Open from 9 to 11 a. m., 7 to 8 p. m. No collection or delivery will be made excepting the early morning collection and delivery. During the hours that the office is open the carriers will wait upon the carriers' window.

—Fruit growers in this section are discouraged with this year's crop. The drought of six weeks or more has prematurely ripened or brought to decay most of the crop, and now what is left of it is of a very interior quality. The apple crop will not be one-third [illegible] be six weeks ago. Sm[illegible] off. Truck farmers and ber[illegible] have had the same luck.

—Workmen are now engaged in demolishing the old foundry building in the rear of the McClain block on West High street preparatory to the erection of a fine and modern equipped livery stable which, when completed, will be occupied by Liveryman Jesse Cox. Jesse has now one of the best livery and boarding stables in this neck o' woods and when he is located in his new quarters his establishment will be second to none in Central Pennsylvania.

—The attraction that Green's Drug store has for pretty girls is positive evidence of the superior quality and flavor of the soda water to be found there. If one desires to feast his eyes on feminine beauty he has only to station himself in or nearby this particular store and he will soon be convinced that Bellefonte contains within her walls more beautiful and charming girls than any other town of like size in this State, or any other State for that matter.

—The man, woman, or child who recklessly throws on the pavement a banana skin is guilty of a despicable, and uncleanly action as well. There has been several bad falls sustained by pedestrians on our throughfares within the past week caused by treading upon banana rinds deposited on the sidewalk by some thoughtless or indifferent person who, in so doing, display a lack of home training or a meagre allowance of common sense. It might be well if the green grocers and fruit dealers in town would see to it that their premises are keep free from the refuse of their establishments. It would be a step in the right direction at least.

—A Brazilian doctor claims to have discovered an infallible cure for snake bites of all kinds. In a sworn statement sent to the Academy of Medicine at Rio de Janerio he says: "I neutralize opbadic poison even after it has entered the blood in circulation, and when the patient has been overcome by hemorrhage and is blind, deaf, with deadly vertigo, anorexia, and only faint pulsations of the heart, by administering two tablespoonfuls of soap containing two grammes of calomel and thirty grammes of strong lemon juice, and repeating the dose within two hours. After the third dose the patient is free from danger."

—There are certain diseases that are more prevalent at one time than at another, certain seasons seem to be more favorable to the development of germs of disease. At the present time typhoid fever seems to be the weapon which the reaper death is swinging with a vigorous hand. It is important therefore, that special care should be taken by all who have a desire to live to avoid such things, as during this hot dry weather "hold such enmity to the blood of man," that the fever quickly follows an over indulgence of their use. We should be careful what we eat, careful not to over-exert ourselves in the hot sun, keep cool and avoid much excitement. A man past middle life will add length to his days by taking care now.

—It is said there were seven hundred people at the K. G. E. picnic and band contest at Hecla Park on Thursday, and that about five hundred of that number went down from Milesburg and vicinity. There were three bands that entered the contest, viz: State College band, of State College; Coleville band of Coleville, and Good Templer band of Lock Haven. The judge awarded the following grades Good Templer 83; State College 79; Coleville 69. The first prize was $55, and the second $20. There was no third prize given. The day was as fine as silk and all present had an enjoyable time.

STILL UNSETTLED

Differences Between England and the Transvaal.

BRITISH BLUE BOOK ISSUED

The Boer Proposition to Arbitrate Was Rejected—Joint Commission of Inquiry Has Been Proposed.

PRETORIA, August 26.—Commandant General P. J. Joubert issued yesterday a circular to all field cornets cautioning them against any act tending to bring on a conflict with another power. He declares that not a single stranger who does not volunteer is to be coerced into bearing arms. Commander Viljoen has given notice in the Volksraad that he will ask the government if in case of war it is prepared to confiscate the property of inhabitants who take up arms against the government.

In the course of an interview after the session Commandant Viljoen said that if war breaks out, military government would be established at Johannesburg and all British subjects would be compelled to leave.

BLUE BOOK OF THE FOREIGN OFFICE.

LONDON, August 26.—The foreign office [illegible]ing issued a new Transvaal blue [illegible]aining further correspondence be[illegible] secretary of state for Mr. Joseph [illegible]berlain, and the British high commis[illegible]er for South Africa, Sir Alfred Milner.

The principal dispatches dealt with the Transvaal's request for arbitration and Mr. Chamberlain's suggestions for a joint inquiry, which was telegraphed to Sir Alfred Milner at Cape Town on July 31. No information is given, however, as to the views of the Transvaal government regarding this proposition.

Sir Alfred Milner transmitted the Transvaal's proposal on June 14 and recommended its immediate rejection, as it would raise more questions than it would solve. In defending his recommendation Sir Alfred insisted that a redress of the grievances of the Outlanders stood at the head of the programme, and that nothing else could be considered until this point was settled.

Mr. Chamberlain, in replying, endorsed Sir Alfred Milner's views and reviewed the situation resulting in the treatment to which the outlanders are now subjected. His reply concluded with the proposal of a joint commission of inquiry.

PRETORIA, August 26.—The volksraad yesterday by a vote of 18 to 9 adopted the report of the majority of the dynamite commission continuing the monopoly.

The girl of today is slender no matter if she is tall or short. Her hips are narrow and her skirts are long and clinging.

The newest white petticoats are not hung on yokes. They are cut to fit the hips and are fastened by buttons.

Tucks are no longer fashionable in underwear. Their place has been taken by rows of alternating lace and embroidery inserting.

White gowns laundered at home often lack the right kind of stiffening. Boil a pound of rice in a gallon of water and dip the white gown into it.

Cut the Thistles.

There is a heavy penalty for permitting Canada thistles to grow. A land holder must cut all thistles before the seeds ripen. The township or borough authorities are required to enforce the law; and if they are not destroyed in time the authorities must have the work done, and compel the owner of the land to pay for it and costs and penalty besides. This is the season for getting rid of all noxious weeds, as the seed is beginning to ripen. Delays are dangerous.

BELLEFONTE, Aug. 26, 1899.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.

Sir:—

Late Friday afternoon there occurred in front of the Bush House one of those disgraceful scenes, that are alas! too frequently noticeable on our streets, a drunken blackguard filling the air with vile and disgusting language and making the atmosphere fairly blue with coarse profanity By nature a coward and a blow-hard he with the knowledge that no one would stoop to his level and engage in a quarrel with him, flung out his challege for a pugilistic encounter to all who chanced to come within the sight of his bleary eyes. For at least fifteen minutes this abominable spectacle presented itself to the passersby. Ladies and young girls naturally came within hearing of his loathsome mouthings, the presence of women however, did not check the torrent of blasphemy and obscenity. Numerous inquiries were made, during the progress of this elevated (?) and refined (?) exhibition, for the police, as usual, however, no authentic or reliable information could be given as to the whereabouts of the guardians of the peace, whose duty it is to clear the streets of rabble and disturbers, and protect the citizens of the town particularly the women and children. The men can take care of themselves, from contact with such sights as was witnessed Friday afternoon on one of the prominent throughfares of the town. It is notoriously true that our police officers are never to be found when wanted and seem to display a remarkable talent for keeping out of sight. The tax payers certainly have a right to demand that the policemen of Bellefonte give their full time to the discharge of their official duties. They are not employed for ornamental purposes nor are they paid for holding down chairs in hotels, cigar shops and pool-rooms. There seems to be some question as to who holds authority over the Bellefonte "coppers," whether the Council or the Chief Burgess. It matters not which, the Council or the Chief Burgess has authority over them and one or the other should see to it that the police officers perform their full duty in accordance with the requirements of the law, or the borough ordinances as the case may be, and not agreeably to their personal desires and inclinations. Strangers who visit our town frequently observe such conduct on the streets as that which occurred Friday afternoon and remark with surprise and amazement the lack of evidence of police surveillance in our little city. The citizens of Bellefonte are looking to the Councilmen or Chief Burgess to take action in the matter and remedy an evil that has existed too long. A spring election transpires in a few months hence and there will then be an opportunity to improve our municipal government in this direction if no steps are taken in the meantime to correct and advance its interests

Still Branching Out.

The Berwind-White coal company is buying from 4,500 to 5,000 acres of coal lands from some thirty prominent farmers in Conemaugh township, Somerset county. The deal has been in progress for some time and part of the sellers have received their money from the coal company, while others are expected to transfer their property to the corporation within the next sixty days. The price paid per acre is $18. The land lies in the vicinity of Davidsville, Tire Hill and Benscreek.

A State College Man Injured.

Mifflin Snyder, one of the leading business men of State College, was quite seriously injured at Lemont Thursday afternoon. Mr. Snyder drove to Lemont in his spring wagon to get a load of goods from the Pennsylvania freight station. As he went to get into the wagon after loading the goods his horses became frightened he reached for the lines but secured but one. The horses were running furiously and Mr. Snyder was thrown to the ground sustaining painful injuries. He was cut and bruised badly about the head and body. The team was stopped at the end of the street but the wagon was badly smashed up. Mr. Snyder had his wounds attended to by Dr. W. S. Glenn, of State College, who pronounced them painful but not serious.

CUBAN RIOTERS SHOT.

Five Killed and Ten Wounded in a Fight At Cuevitas.

ORDER PROMPTLY RESTORED

Rioters Were Unpaid Cuban Soldiers—5000 Had Assembled and Less Than 600 Were Paid—Delays Due to Imperfect List—Payment Resumed Under a Heavy Guard of Troops.

SERIOUS TROUBLES NOT ANTICIPATED

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Aug. 24.—Five men are dead and ten wounded as the result of a fight Tuesday night between gendarmes and disappointed Cuban soldiers at Cuevitas, three miles from Santiago, where the payment of the Cuban troops is progressing. Five thousand Cubans had gathered there to receive pay, and after three days only 580 had been paid. Thousands who had been disappointed at other points had come to Cuevitas as the last place of payment in the province.

The imperfect list causes great dissatisfaction, and a rumor circulated that the paymasters would leave Wednesday alarmed the men who had not been paid. They began to collect in groups and to show their annoyance. Finally their threats became serious.

Captain Baliat, with twenty gendarmes, was present to preserve order among the applicants, and the United States troops protected Colonel Moale, the officer having charge of the payments. Suddenly Captain Baliat, who was mounted, was surrounded by a mob, struck by stones and bottles and shot in the arm. His men promptly fired a volley into the mob, three persons being instantly killed and thirteen wounded, two of whom died Wednesday morning.

Colonel Moale's guard promptly surrounded the money office, but took no part in the fighting.

For a few minutes there was a lively conflict, carbines and machetes being used freely. Captain Baliat was the only gendarme wounded. All the dead were colored Cuban soldiers.

Wednesday morning payment was resumed under a heavy guard. There are rumors that a force is being organized to attack the pay office, but these are probably unfounded,

General Castillo, Civil Governor of Santiago de Cuba, was at Cuevitas at the time, and soon restored order.

There is no doubt that the inaccurate list will cause a great deal of hardship. Many veterans have vainly followed the United States Commissioners for six weeks, only to find that their names are not listed.

$25,000.00 Given Away.

In the past year Dr. R. V. Pierce has given away copies of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, at an expense to him of $25,000.00 exclusive of postage. This standard book on medicine and hygiene, contains 1008 pages and more than 700 illustrations. It treats of the greatest and gravest problems of human life in simple English, from a common sense point of view. It answers those questions of sex which linger unspoken upon the lips of youth and maiden. It is essentially a family book, and its advice in a moment of sudden illness or accident may be the means of saving a valuable life. This great work is sent absolutely free on receipt of stamps to defray the cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper binding, or 31 stamps for cloth covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Snake Dined on Turkey.

A short time ago, William H. Harter, of Hartleton, while driving along at Pardee, says the Times, saw a large black snake in the road, and getting out of his wagon, killed it. After the snake was killed William Libby approached, having an axe on his shoulder. A large hump was noticed on the body of the snake, so the ax was put in play and the snake cut open, when they found one of Joe Pursley's young turkeys. The snake measured 5 feet 8 inches in length.

"Josiah Allen's Wife" (Marietta Holley) has finished her new story, and the first installment is published in the August Ladies' Home Journal. It is in her characteristic, humorous vein, but may be said to be a story with a purpose. It bears the name of "My Stylish Cousin's Daughter."

How to Prolong Life.

"Intemperance anticipates age," so said the late Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson. The more the social causes of mental and physical organic diseases are investigated, the more closely the origin of degenerative organic changes leading to premature decay are questioned, the more closely does it come out that intemperance, often not suspected by the person himself who is implicated in it, so subtle is its influence, is at the root of evil. When old age has really commenced its march toward final decay it is best delayed by attention to those rules of conservation by which life is sustained with the least friction and the least waste. The prime rules for this purpose are—to subsist on light but nutritious diet, with milk as the standard food, but varied according to season. To take food in moderate quantities four times a day, including a light meal before going to bed; to clothe warmly, but lightly, so that the body may in all seasons maintain its equal temperature; to keep the body in fair exercise, and the mind active and cheerful; to maintain an interest in what is going on in the world, and to take part in reasonable labors and pleasures, as though old age were not present; to take plenty of sleep during sleeping hours; to spend nine hours in bed at least, and to take care during cold weather that the temperature of the bed rooms is maintained at 60 degrees Fahrenheit; to avoid passion, excitement and luxury.—American Journal of Health.

The West and Prosperity.

The West, like the rest of the country, is at high tide of prosperity. Everybody is cheerful. The outlook is brighter than it has been in the agricultural regions in many years. The Populist and the Bryanite politicians are becoming so rare in the corn belt that they would be curiosities. There is no time for croaking, even if there were any excuse for it. Everybody is busy and enthusiastic. Not only do all the corn and wheat raisers believe that this is the best country in the world, but they are convinced that these are the brightest days which the country has seen in many years. Prosperity and happiness are encountered on every hand. There is a dense silence among the croakers of calamity as there is in a frogpond in the Arctic regions in January. The Populist and Democratic leaders are still, and their dupes of a year or two ago are denying that they ever belonged to the combine of whiners. An easy explanation is here given to the fact that Bryan has to go to the South or the East to find audiences in these days. Nobody can be found in his own regions any longer to listen to his litany of woe.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

To Extract a Splinter.

The easiest way to extract a splinter deep in the flesh of the hand or foot is by means of steam. A rather wide mouthed bottle is filled two-thirds full of boiling water, and the injured spot is held close over the opening. The suction draws the flesh down, and a little additional pressure is used to assist the exit of the intruder. In a few minutes the steam extracts the splinter, and the inflammation rapidly subsides.

WEATHER OUTLOOK.

What Prophet Foster Says About the Coming Weather

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from the 16th to 20th, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about the 21st, cross the west of Rockies country by close of 22d, great central valleys 23d to 25th eastern states 26th.

Warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about 21st, great central valleys 23d, eastern states 25th. Cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about 24th, great central valleys 26th, eastern states 28th.

Temperature for the week ending 8 a. m. Aug. 28 will average about normal in the northern states and on the Pacific coast and in the southern states below. Rainfall for the same period will be below normal in the northern states and on the Pacific coast and above in the southern states.

The greater portion of the corn crop is made. Late corn has yet to pass the danger point of a September frost. In bulletin of Aug. 26 will be published a general forecast for September weather, including frost forecasts for that month.

Immigrants who are now flooding to our shores can read, in the proposed action of the authorities at Washington, relative to the Tallulah affair the advice not to give up their foreign allegiance, for they should be injured or killed by mob, even though they were themselves particeps criminis the Federal Government bound, according to precedents already established, to provide for themselves or their families. On the other hand, should the same trouble happen to them after taking on American citizenship, they would receive nothing. All this goes to show that precedents are bad things to establish, and that some some times a foreigner receives better protection than one of our own citizens.

LOVERS of high-class sport rejoice that the British cup challenger, Shamrock, arrived at New York without accident. Everybody wishes the best boat to win, and on this side of the Atlantic we have no doubt of the Columbia being the best.

Burned His Neighbor's Fence.

W. E. Bower, a farmer near Mackeyville, a few days ago was burning brush. While Mr. Bower was at dinner the flames leaped from the brush pile to his neighbor's wood lot, and burned the entire surface of the lot as well as many rods of the fence. The neighbors put out the flames.

This experience demonstrates that farmers cannot be too careful this extremely dry season with fires in thy open fields.

An Extra Mailing Clerk.

Not only does our business industries feel the effects of the good McKinley times but the post office business at this place has increased so much that Postmaster Montgomery found it necessary to ask the department for an additional mailing clerk at the Bellefonte Post Office. This request has been granted and Postmaster Montgomery has appointed Wm. S. Chambers, of this place as the new clerk.

The appointment dates from the 1st of September and is temporary pending the civil service examination which all P. O. employees are required to pass. As soon as Mr. Chambers passes this examination which will be held shortly, he will then be appointed permanently. Mr. Chambers is a very worthy young man fully capable of discharging the duties of his new position to the satisfaction of the department and the public in general. We congratulate him on his good fortune.

Lieut. George L. Jackson, U. S. V.

Lieutenant George L. Jackson, Co. B, 5th Regiment, P. V. I., has been recommended to the War Department by Governor Stone for commission as second lieutenant in the volunteer army. The many friends of Mr. Jackson will be pleased with his good fortune. In his appointment the War Department secures the services of one of the most efficient and thoroughly informed officers of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. There is no officer in the Guard better versed in military tactics and science than Mr. Jackson. He is certain to render a good account of himself in the army and we can assure him that he will carry with him the very best wishes and God-speed of his Bellefonte friends and acquaintances. George L. Jackson entered the National Guard of Pennsylvania as a private in Co. B, 5th Regiment, July 6th, 1894; elected second lieutenant Aug 3, 1894; elected first lieutenant March 13, 1896; entered the United States service May 11, 1898; mustered out Nov. 8, 1898; re-entered the Guard on the reorganization of Company B in February, 1899. Here's to the success of George L. Jackson. Second Lieutenant U. S. V.

Old Timber With a Good Record.

Timber has been taken from the old foundry building, in the rear of the McClain block, now being torn down to make room for the livery stable that is to occupy the same site, that was used in the erection of the building away back in the forties. The timber is in perfect condition firm and solid. When the old building was overhauled and practically rebuilt in 1867 by Colonel Bayard, this identical timber was taken from the ground, it forming the foundation of the original foundry house and used in the structural part of the repaired building where it has has been to this day. It will now occupy a prominent place in the new building soon to be erected. It has surely rendered good and faithful service more than a half of a century and has perhaps years of service yet to perform.

Remarkable Rescue

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at F. Potts Green's Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

The New Match Factory.

There has been considerable talk of late about starting a match factory in Bellefonte. Some days ago workmen commenced work on a building on land of F. W. Crider, along side of the creek within the limit of the territory occupied by the extensive lumber yards of P. B. Crider & Son, near the Lamb street bridge. George Van Tries is book-keeper for the firm of P. B. Crider & Son, a position he has held for many years, a position he has filled with credit to himself and profit to his employers; by his many years of faithful service he has no doubt won the confidence of, and is in a position to know and give reliable information in regard to any new project the Criders may have in contemplation. A reporter of this paper interviewed him on Thursday evening, as to what purpose the new building was to be put, and George seriously and with apparent honesty, informed the "quill driver" that Mr. F. W. Crider was erecting the building for the use of the new match factory, and went into an elaborate deseritation upon the mysteries of the match business, what great profits were made, how fast they could be turned out and many other wise and interesting facts, for the information of ye editor and others who were standing around, and we came to the conclusion that notwithstanding the reliable source of our information, that the building in question was to be used for storing and drying lumber and that George was giving us a big bluff.

IT'S DIFFERENT
THE NORTH AMERICAN
(PHILADELPHIA)
IT'S DIFFERENT, because it prints all the news, and all the news it prints is true.
IT'S DIFFERENT, because it's bright and brisk, up-to-date and vigorous, but not yellow.
IT'S DIFFERENT, because its only policy is to tell the truth. It has no covert or personal interests to promote. It serves no political ambition, no creed, no class prejudice, no mere partisan purpose.
IT'S DIFFERENT, because it advocates equal taxation and battles against the existing system, which favors the rich corporation at the expense of the farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer and the wage

OUR CAMPAIGN OFFER.

As the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN is the recognized official organ of the Republican party in Centre County, and as it is our intention to make a sturdy fight for Republican victory on the State and County ticket this fall, we have decided to offer the REPUBLICAN from now until the close of the campaign for the surprisingly low price of 25 cents. We will not send out any more FREE sample copies so if you want to be in the push send in your subscription now. $1.00 per year if paid in advance or 25 cents for the campaign.

The REPUBLICAN is a clean up-to-date newspaper; publishing all the latest news together with the best miscellany and stories obtainable. Don't forget the offer, tell it to your neighbors, 25 cents for the REPUBLICAN until the close of campaign.

It is never safe to attempt to predict the result of an election, by the amount of noise at a political convention.

Candidate Sam Jones, of Ohio, intends making a down—to—the—minute campaign; he has bought an automobile.

The Wisconsin school teacher who hanged himself can hardly be said to have set a good example for his scholars to follow.

Although the editors of the big dailies do not appear to know it, there are a few persons in this country, who do not wade through the columns printed about the Dreyfus trial.

England has a habit of going to the verge of war so frequently that it is just as well to wait for the shooting to begin in the Transvaal before getting excited.

THE PRESIDENTS CRITICS.

Our campaign in the Philippines has stirred up the wildest kind of a tumult among a certain class of our people, a class fortunately whose opinion will not be permitted to shape the destiny of our government nor change the direction of its course. The anti-imperialist, the anti-expansionist and the anti-administrationist all belong to the same species, all have a single purpose, that of discrediting if possible, the administration of President McKinley and throwing in his way every obstacle they can invent or manufacture that may tend to embarrass him or hinder the advancement and ultimate success of his administrative policy. A calm and dispassionate study and contemplation of the actual conditions existing, and the indisputable facts to be gathered from authorative sources, will satisfy and convince the most exacting critic that all has been done, that could be done, by the administration in our military campaign in the Philippines. The government sent to the islands every soldier that could be spared from the garrisons in Cuba, Porto Rico and the military posts at home, and with the force at hand extraordinary success was achieved. Not a single defeat can be charged against the American arms. The civil administration of Manila under the direction and supervision of *G*eneral Otis, who commands the military forces in the Philippines as well, is a flattering testimonial to his ability and worth. Yet with it all the "kickers" clamor for his scalp and the President has been upbraided and berated because he will not yield to their unreasonable, unfair and ridiculous demands and relieve, without cause, an efficient and capable officer of a command in which he has performed faithful and meritorious service. The dishonorable methods to which some of our prominent public men and great dailies resort in their desire and anxiety to acquire evidence in support of their untenable charges of incompeteney and unpopularity against General Otis, and at the same time harass and annoy the President by undeserved criticism and unjust reproach, is unworthy of those who pose as men to be respected and looked up to, because of their extensive and superior knowledge of men and affairs, and unworthy of a citizen of the United States who, if he were true to himself, his flag and his country, would now, of all times, stand by his government and assist in its projects and undertakings, rather than decry its actions and malign and traduce its defenders and supporters. The repeated publication of letters of soldiers—in name only they must be—whose narrow and circumscribed intellects are unable to appreciate the merits of their superior officers; the published interviews with the same class of the government's military, recently returned from the Philippines, and the promulgation of press reporter's "stories from the front" highly colored and distorted because of the limitations and restrictions of the press censorship form the basis of the attacks made upon the President and General Otis. Such information, obtained from such sources cannot but be wholly unreliable and with the least semblance of truth in its entire construction. Such information can only eminate from men who hold a grievance against the commanding officer, or from those who have been and are malcontents and disturbers in the army and who have no doubt suffered punishment in some degree for breach of discipline or violation of military rules and regulations. The press censorship, established—unfortunately, too late for the good of the government and its military operations, doubtless irritated and displeased the correspondents in the field and led them, or induced their journals to direct them to misrepresent and exaggerate the conditions existing in the Philippines. The unpatriotic and, one feels almost persuaded to say treasonable, utterances appearing in, but a few we are glad to say, of our leading newspapers is a stain upon American journalism. The freedom of the press is carried by some editors and publishers to an extent that borders upon disloyalty, and the views and sentiments expressed by demagogues and agitators savors of the revolutionary diction of nihilists, socialists and anarchists. Why do not these captious, carping critics hurl their denunciations and censure at Congress upon whom the shortcomings of the Philippine campaign should rightfully descend. Had Congress provided the President with a regular army of at least an hundred thousand men, as was repeatedly urged upon them so to do, he would have been able to strengthen and re-inforce the army in the Philippines before peace had been declared and the force at that point been depleted by the withdrawal of the volunteer troops and additional regulars whose term of enlistment terminated with the treaty of Paris, and thus could have maintained at least, if not increased the strength and efficiency of the army in the field. If any fault is to be found for the lack of sufficient military to suppress and extinguish the insurrection, it rests with Congress and not the President or *G*eneral Otis. It is to be expected that the Democratic party will make, or attempt to make, an issue in next year's campaign of the war in the Philippines and it is but natural to expect condemnation and repudiation of President McKinley's policy from that source. It is gratifying, however, to note that there are many leading and prominent Democrats in the country at large who endorse the Philippine policy and who stand by the President in his efforts to carry it through. It is at the same time deplorably true that in the Republican party there are those who hold to an opposite view, but they are too few to do harm even if they coalesce with the same class in the Democratic party. The scheming politician with visions of future greatness to be attained by official preferment will accomplish but little to that end by his antagonism to the President and the administration's policy of territorial expansion. The people have proclaimed their confidence in our chief magistrate by the alacrity with which they respond to his call for volunteers. They are behind him in his efforts to subdue in his own way the Filipinos and his determination to bring them under the influence of a government whose mission in earth is to proclaim liberty and independence throughout the world and extend its blessed privileges and advantages wherever oppression and tyranny hold intolerant sway and dominion.

A WEEK AFTER THE CONVENTION.

The Republican State Convention is a week old, and its merits and demerits have been copiously discussed by practically every newspaper in the State according to the political faith of editors and publishers. The ticket named fulfilled our prophecy in last week's REPUBLICAN though we claim but little, if any, credit for such accurate anti-convention predictions. Ever since the proceedings of the conference between the master workmen and the walking delegates of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, held at Atlantic City some weeks ago, were ventilated through the press the public knew, or at least could without much mental exertion, hazard a conjecture upon the probable action of the State Convention, our conclusions therefore, were reached without extraordinary use of our powers of penetration. We expressed our opinion of the ticket in our last issue and we do not see the necessity for a repetition of our views concerning it. The work of the committee on resolutions, composed of Senator Boies Penrose so it is alleged, although several names appeared in the published reports of the make-up of the convention's organization as members of said committee, is certainly entitled to high praise and enconium. As a finished rhetorician the Junior United States Senator from Pennsylvania, in fact the only legal representative we enjoy the distinction of possessing in that illustrious body, stands preeminently great. As a distributor of sweet scented and highly flavored bouquets he is unstinted and lavish. On the whole the distinguished "resolutionist" carried out the instructions and wishes of the master mind in a manner calculated to inspire the admiration of all who recognized the delicacy of the task that was imposed upon him. Every Republican in Pennsylvania will applaud the eulogies passed upon our President, his peerless administration and the brave and gallant soldier boys of our great Commonwealth. The re-affirmation of Pennsylvania Republicans loyalty to the doctrines of protection, sound money and in fact all the principles that Republicanism stands for and represents echoes the sentiments and expresses the views of Republicans in general throughout the State. The approval of the action of our chief executive in his appointment of M. S. Quay to the United States Senate in the face of legislative rejection, his reduction of the Public School appropriation and his violation of constitutional mandates is a horse of another color. Fortunately for the honor and credit of our State and institutions all our people do not, and will not, endorse a commendation of illegal actions of public servants be they of high or low official station. There are many, indeed they may be enumerated by the thousand, who condemn and repudiate that portion of the convention's resolutions which by its laudatory eulogium confers a premium upon official perfidy and partisan and unauthorized administration of official prerogatives. In the main the resolutions are creditable, and typical of a Republican convention. That they failed to touch upon questions of State interest and concern, questions that are being presented to the public by the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer and which form the basis of his campaign arguments, is to be regretted. It must be accepted, therefore, as the express desire of the machine to evade an issue the discussion of which would without doubt redound to the discredit of the dominant faction of the Republican party of Pennsylvania and perhaps bring disaster to the candidates who have been recipients of the Convention's favor by grace of the supreme boss and dictator. The Convention performed its prearranged functions and the ticket selected must be recognized as the ticket of the Republicans of the State, even if its choice was that of a machine or one man. The independent Pennsylvania Republican electors will forget for the present their abhorrence and dislike for machine politics and give to the ticket an old time loyal support which will result in an old time Republican majority in November next. But the warfare against Quay and Quayism will not be set aside and suspended for good. Next year will witness a resumption of hostilities against the machine and results attained will be of a character calculated to relegate machine politics and bossism to the dead past.

THE PRESIDENT'S PITTSBURG SPEECH.

The speech of President McKinley at Pittsburg on Monday upon the occasian of the reception to the 10th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers was characteristic of the man and statesman that he is. In his eulogy of the gallant 10th he did not forget or overlook their comrades from other states who stood with them in the distant Philippines in defence of our flag, nor was he unmindful of the thousands of volunteers who stood in readiness to go to the front but who were denied the privilege because of the speedy termination of the war with Spain. All, he said had done well their duty to their country and the nation appreciates and applauds their loyalty and patriotism. The President by his laudation of the men who remained in the Philippines until fresh troops had arrived before accepting the discharge to which they were entitled, administered a well merited rebuke to those Americans who by their apparent sympathy for the insurgents have given assistance and encouragement to the rebels against our country and against our flag. The President took advantage of the opportunity to state his position in regard to the Philippine question. In plain comprehensive language he explained why the authority of our government would be maintained in those distant isles of the sea. He defended his policy in a way that must win for him further respect and esteem of the patriotic Americans. He declared with force and effect that he and not General Otis was responsible for all that was done in the islands before the outbreak of the insurrection, and he made it clear and evident that the rebellion would be entirely suppressed and overthrown and that American liberty and American government would be extended to the Filipinos. The President's declaration will do much to solidify the nation on the much discussed question. It contains the assurance that no backward step will be taken by the administration, but that the operations against the Filipinos will be pushed onward until Aguinaldo and his followers bend the knee in submission to the government they causelessly and ungratefully attacked. The President further intimated that the Filipino sympathizers and unpatriotic apologists in America will have little influence in deciding the action of the government. The President's speech was in all a splendid tribute to American arms, a clear and concise exposition of his policy, an admirable effort that is sure to win the hearts of the American people and inspire a greater loyalty to the flag and to our grand and glorious government.

HOT SHOT FROM FLINN.

State Senator William Flinn of Allegheny county, leader of the Insurgent forces in the legislative battles in the session of '97 spoke out in meeting at the Republican State Convention last week and although his short address was received with cat calls and hisses by some of the machine followers, he voiced the sentiment of thousands of Republicans in Pennsylvania who share with him similar views upon that portion of the Convention's resolutions which called forth his denunciation and disapproval. The Senator's remarks were as follows:

"Some of the propositions in the platform remind me very much of the condition of affairs in Germany. There, when the people want a new member of the Upper House of their legislative body, the reigning monarch appoints him. Now, as I understand it, no such proposition as this has confronted the people of this State for at least three-quarters of a century. If this custom of allowing Governors to appoint members of the United States Senate, where the Legislatures have failed to elect, should become the law of this country, it will be absolutely impossible for the people to change their representatives in that body.

"The action of the 'Fifty-six' Republican members of the Assembly has been criticised by those who claim to own the Republican party of the State. I will admit that our course was rather drastic, but it was the only way in which we could assert our right to represent our constituents as they desired to be represented. For myself, I am responsible to no man and to no constituency save the one that elected me to my seat in the State Senate.

"I cannot agree to the sections in this platform endorsing the Governor for appointing Mr. Quay to succeed himself, nor to the personal endorsement of Mr. Quay, to whose election a majority of the representatives of the people are opposed. Not being able to agree to these sections, I desire to state my reasons for opposing them, and to demand my right as a free delegate to have my vote recorded against them."

"Almost forty per cent. of the Republicans and a majority of all the Representatives and Senators in the present Legislature are in favor of making a change in their representative in the United States Senate, but for well-known reasons they have been unable to agree upon a proper man to elect to that position.

"The chief thing that I blame the Governor of Pennsylvania for is that he did not take some of his political lieutenants by the coat collar and shake them until they voted to tax corporations, beer and whiskey, which would have given him plenty of revenues, so that the common school appropriation might have been left intact. Many such measures were proposed, but they were throttled by the lieutenants of the State machine.

"Had Governor Stone shown the same courage and determination that Governor Roosevelt has exhibited, he would have brought the man who obstructed the various revenue bills to a halt, and the school appropriations would have been saved."

A ROYAL RECEPTION.

THERE was nothing left undone by the citizens of Western Pennsylvania in their royal reception on Monday last to the gallant Tenth Regiment at Pittsburg. The oration tendered the heroes from the Philippines was not in the least in excess of their merits. The President of the United States joined with the Governor of our Commonwealth and the municipal authorities of our western metropolis in welcoming to their native State a *P*ennsylvania regiment whose achievements in the Philippines will forever live a monument to American valor and to Pennsylvania's loyalty to the Union. The great demonstration was a magnificent spectacle of patriotism and loyalty. It means more than a recognition of gallantry and heroic action of brave soldiers, by neighbors and fellow citizens. It indicates that the people of Pennsylvania indorse the cause for which these men and others fought and also the President's policy they assisted in carrying out. It means that the loyal citizens of Pennsylvania are standing by the President. In the Keystone State our chief magistrate is close to the hearts of the people. They honor and revere him. They have shared richly in the abundant prosperity that has come to our people through his careful and wise administration of national government. They have faith in his wisdom. They applaud his course and are ready at all times to give him their assistance and support. Pennsylvania was with McKinley in '96. She is with him now and will be with him in 1900.

Judging from the number of dinners to which Admiral Dewey has been invited, there seems to be an impression abroad that, in addition to having the wisdom of a Solon and the courage of a Leonidas, he also possesses the digestion of an ostrich.

WITH Richard Croker, the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, and former Speaker Reed, all standing on or under the same platform, the age of political miracles seem not to have passed.

HAVING had an extended experience with both race horses and politicians, Wm. C. Whitney seems to prefer to spend his money on the former.

MACHINE MUST FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Battle Against Ex-Senator Quay to Continue With Increased Energy.

MAGEE'S FRIENDS AGAINST QUAY

Followers of Pittsburg's Senator Refuse to Endorse Governor Stone's Appointment of the Ex-Senator From Beaver—Colored Voters Denounce Quay and Stone For Their Refusal to Recognize Them—Machine's End in Sight.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Harrisburg, Aug. 29.—The fight against machine rule in Pennsylvania will be more vigorously waged the next twelve months than it has ever been. The anti-machine forces will give their opponents no quarter, and they will neither ask or expect none. The feeling against machine domination is spreading so rapidly that there is no doubt it will soon be swept out of existence. The same forces which prevented the election of ex-Senator Quay last winter have already laid their plans to fight for control of the next legislature. Senator William Flinn, of Pittsburg, chairman of the anti-Quay organization in the last legislature, outlined the policy of the people opposed to machine rule in a statement issued the night before the recent Republican state convention.

"The fight against Quay and Quayism," said Mr. Flinn, "will be continued with increased energy in every county in the state until not only the extinction of Mr. Quay has been accomplished, but legislation for ballot reform, personal registration and equalization of taxation has been enacted. Mr. Quay cannot be elected by the present legislature. The United States senate is not going to stultify itself to give him a seat, and the next legislature will be so overwhelmingly anti-Quay that Mr. Quay will pass into history only a lonely name."

CHESTER AGAINST THE MACHINE.

The committee of fifteen of the anti-machine Republicans of Chester county have issued an open letter, stating the position of their organization in the campaign for county offices. After asserting that the primaries were conducted unfairly, that the practice of slating tickets has been continued and that voting for the candidates named by the county machine would be an endorsement of the state machine, the address concludes:

"To successfully oppose Quayism in the county and state, and to be in position next year to send men to the legislature who will oppose the selection of any man for senator who is not personally and politically clean and honest, we must stand together now. We give our individual and united assurance that the movement which we have inaugurated, and for which we earnestly ask your support, is done with but one end in view, namely:

"To secure honest government in county and state. We wish to make it plain that this effort is not made against the candidates of the Republican party as individuals, but simply against the methods by which their nominations were secured, and by which they would now secure their election, and thus aid in perpetuating the control of men who have already been in power too long for the good of the people and who are detrimental to the Republican party."

MAGEE'S FRIENDS AGAINST QUAY.

A notable incident of the Republican state convention was the opposition of the friends of Senator C. L. Magee, of Pittsburg, to the machine program. They voted as a unit against Josiah R. Adams, the slated candidate for superior court judge, and the adoption of the plank in the platform endorsing Governor Stone's appointment of ex-Senator Quay.

Conspicuous among the Allegheny delegates were Senator John W. Crawford and Representative George M. Hosack, both of whom voted for Quay in the last legislature until two days before the final adjournment. Senator Crawford and his colleague believe that the governor has no legal right to appoint a United States senator under the conditions which he appointed Quay, and they had the courage of their convictions to vote against the adoption of this plank in the platform.

HUEY WOULDN'T NAME ADAMS.

The refusal of Samuel B. Huey, a distinguished and honored member of the Philadelphia bar, to nominate Josiah R. Adams in the state convention excited much comment among the politicians at the state capital. Mr. Huey is Mr. Adams' law partner, and strong pressure was brought to bear upon him to make the speech nominating him for superior court judge. The recent revelations made by the Philadelphia North American concerning Mr. Adams' record as shown on the dockets of the common pleas court are said to have been the motive which prompted Mr. Huey to refuse to do the honors for his partner.

The Washington county delegates opposed the nomination of Colonel Barnett for state treasurer solely on the ground of his disloyalty to the Republican party. According to these neighbors of the colonel Judge McIlvaine, at present occupying the bench of Washington county, was opposed by an organized movement, of which Barnett was secretary. McIlvaine was the regularly nominated candidate of the Republican party. Barnett helped to defeat T. M. Pentecost after he had been nominated for county treasurer by the Republican county convention. Barnett made an unsuccessful effort to defeat the Republican ticket bearing the name of Demas Register for county commissioner. Associate Judge Tailor, the Republican nominee in 1895 for a vacancy on the bench, was opposed at the polls by Barnett and his friends.

DENOUNCE STONE AND QUAY.

The state convention of the Afro-American League of Pennsylvania, which met in this city last Tuesday and Wednesday, denounced Governor Stone and ex-Senator Quay in strong terms in its platform. The colored voters claim they have always been loyal to the party, and still they have been persistently ignored by the machine in the distribution of the fruits of victory. The following resolutions were adopted by the convention:

"We regret that we cannot endorse the administration of Governor Stone thus far in his treatment of his colored constituents. We hold that our voters were the balance of power that elected him, and his discrimination against us in the dispensation of the state patronage is unwarranted and calls for our loudest protests. We point out that not a single appointment has been made by him of any Afro-American to any important position since his inauguration, whilst colored men have been removed and their places filled by white men.

"We regret that because of Senator Quay's insincerity toward the colored people of the state and his disposition not to relax control of the party machinery by his political adherents that we cannot endorse him for re-election, and while we praise him for his services in behalf of the institutions of the state during his term in office, we do not deem it wise under present conditions to endorse him for re-election."

CLEAN PEOPLE

Cleanliness goes with health. If we have catarrh anywhere we cannot be wholly clean.

Make systematic efforts to be free from this disgusting disease. Mrs. L. A. Johnston, 103 Pilham and Ripley Sts., Montgomery, Ala., tells her experience with catarrh of the stomach and how she was cured:

"I will state to you that I have taken eight bottles of your Pe-ru-na and two of Man-a-lin and rejoice to say, 'God bless Dr. Hartman and Pe-ru-na.' And I earnestly assure you that it has done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken in my life. I prescribe it to every one I meet who is suffering, as the best medicine in the world, and have made many converts who are now rejoicing in the great good which they have derived from the same. I can tell you that I am almost entirely relieved of indigestion, that great foe which has tortured me so many years, and can now eat anything I desire without it is fruits or something acid."

To understand the scientific action of Pe-ru-na it is best to have Dr. Hartman's special book for women or his book on chronic catarrh. These books are mailed free by the Pe-ru-na Medicine Company, Columbus, O. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Curtis Johnson, of 583 Bishop street, Freight and Truckman, says:—"I had backache and lameness across my loins for a year or more. At times the lameness was so acute I could lift nothing and if I stooped it was impossible for me to straighten. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidneys the whole time and I had a dull tired feeling which took away all my ambition. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. Potts Green's drug store and they soon freed me from the whole combination of troubles and they did it quietly and thoroughly. My wife was also suffering from a tiresome, grinding backache and she used Doan's Kidney Pills and they invigorated her generally. She now speaks of them as highly as I do. We never came across any remedy which surpassed Doan's Kidney Pills."

WASHINGTON LETTER

from our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug 28, 1899.

President McKinley has signed a proclamation to the people of Cuba, which will be made public in this country after it has been published in Cuba, that will put an end to all of the silly talk about this goverment not intending to allow the Cubans to have any say in the government of that island. This proclamation tells the Cubans that the Census ordered taken in Cuba, work upon which will shortly be started and which it is hoped to have completed in ninety days, will be the first step towards an independent goverment; that when the census is completed arrangements will be made for the holding of local elections throughout the island, in order to give its citizens an opportunity to show their capacity for self-goverment, and that as fast as the local authorities get their government in good working condition, the U. S. troops will be withdrawn. Copies of this proclamation have been forwarded to Gen. Brooke, at Havana, who is charged with the duty of having it widely published throughout the island.

Secretary Root has arranged to go to Fort Hancock and Sandy Hook, N. Y., this week to witness tests of field and mountain guns, under the supervision of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification of the War Department. Secretary Root is such a strong believer in doing things, rather than talking about doing them, that he doesn't personally furnish much "copy" for the newspaper men who swarm in the corridors of the War Department every day; he has the knack, however, of declining to talk in so pleasant a way, that he has made many admirers among the newspaper men, to whom he has refused information about the plans of the War Department.

Secretary Gage has received a highly gratifying report from the Auditor General of Hawaii, showing the comparative imports into the islands for the months of June, 1898, the last under the Hawiian regime, and June 1899. During the first-named month, the imports from U. S. were $599,803 and from all other countries, $293,995, while in June of this year the imports from the U. S. were $1,412,658, and those from all other countries $384,494. The total increase in six months of imports from the U. S. was $3,616,-151. The report also notes that while the government receipts in Hawaii have increased, the public expenditures have decreased. This sort of thing is likely to convince the most obstinate royalist tax-payer in Hawaii that under the protecting wings of the American Eagle is a good place to live.

There is a lesson for those who believe that America is behind Europe in medical science, or in anything else, in a cablegram received several days ago by Surgeon-General Sternburg, from the Director General of the Army Medical Service of Great Britain. The cablegram asked that three hundred copies of a U. S. offical publication, entitled "Sanitary Lessons of the War" be sent for distribution among the medical officers of the British army, and that if that number of copies could not be furnished, permission be given to reprint the pamphlet in London. This cablegram is proof of the newspaper statement that England is preparing for war with the Transvaal Republic, as well as very complimentary to the medical branch of our army.

Secretary Hitchcock, who, although he has not figured extensively in the newspapers, is one of the hardest working and most capable men who has ever been at the head of the Interior Department has returned from a short vacation and resumed his duties, which are not surpassed either in difficulties or responsibilities by those of any other member of the Cabinet, No higher praise can be given a public man than to say he would make a good Secretary of the Interior.

Sometime ago Gen. Miles recommended that some of the regiments enlisted for the Philippines should be composed of colored men, because of their ability to stand the climate as well as of the reputation they have made as good all-around fighters. Secretary Root though so well of the recommendation that he has ordered that one new regiment, just determined upon, shall be composed of colored men. Secretary Root says that unless something occurs to change present plans, Gen. Otis will have about sixty-four thousand men at his disposal before Christmas.

No date has been set for President McKinley's return to Washington, but it is known that he is going from Pittsburg to Ohio before resuming his official duties, It is probable that somewhere between the 1st and 10th of September will find him back at his desk, although there is a possibility that it may be later. Nothing important is being neglected because of his absence from Washington.

THE Constitution makes it the duty of the President to maintain order, and he is doing his best to carry out the mandate in the Philippines and in all our other possessions. These portions of the Philippines that have remained peaceable have been treated in the same manner as Cuba, but the responsibilities we have assumed require the President to repress turbulence until Congress makes further disposition of the Islands.

Hope Grey's Thanksgiving

"There is nothing in my life to be thankful for," thought Hope Grey, as she wearily climbed up the stairs that led to her mite of a room on the top floor of the crowded tenement she called home.

All day, with a choking sob in her throat,she had sat in a damp cheerless room and trimmed hats until her fingers and eyes ached,and then, at night to be discharged because a tiny drop of blood from her pricked fingers fell on a bit of velvet! To the friendless orphan girl it was a bitter misfortune and her whole nature rebelled against the injustice.

Poor hope! The past ten years had been to her a continual struggle for existence. In this time she had seen her mother laid in the grave and herself left alone in the world, with only her own labor between starvation and life.

She was a slender, graceful girl, whose resolute,cheerful spir it shone through her clear brown eyes; but tonight the brown eyes were dim with unshed tears, and as she sat by the window and gazed out into the drizzling twilight she gave herself up to the memory of the past.

Far back in the past she was a child again, surrounded by all that loving parents could provide, and as she dreamed of these days the tears rolled down the pale cheeks and the sensitive mouth quivered with emotion.

A few years had brought great changes. The precious loving mother had slowly died of want and sorrow, and the helpless child could only weep in bitter anguish at the loss which left her utterly friendless. From the day the earth hid her mother's tender face from view, Hope knew she stood alone in the world.

Slowly and painfully the terrible dark days came back to her as she sat in the deepening gloom.

The father had liked the social glass, and then followed an unconquerable thirst that had literally drunk up business, home and manhood.

Again Hope could see the sad pleading eyes of her mother and the growing poorer and poorer until the deepest poverty was coupled with the keener anguish of disgrace.

Then followed the secret hurrying away of the husband and father,who in an hour of terrible temptation had thrown away his honor and principle.

Branded with the crime of forgery the poor wreck of humanity fled to a distant State, and nothing was heard of him for two long agonizing years. At last came the tidings that he had been killed in a drunken brawl in San Francisco The shock was too great for the feeble wife, and Hope saw her mother laid away in her last sleep a young woman yet, but with hair as white as the purest snow.

The poor, tired body had found rest, but for Hope there was no such escape. She was young and strong, and must live on in a continual struggle for a life that was filled only with bitter memories.

As it grew darker she arose from the window and, lighting her lamp, began to count the money in her purse. It was a little sum, and it brought more vividly before the lonely girl her forlorn situation.

"Oh! what will become of me when this is gone?' she asked herself, as she walked nervously up and down the room.

Suddenly she stopped before a little stand, as though some plan had come to her busy brain.

"If I could only sell it!" she said aloud as she took up a small, unframed painting. It was a bit of lowland, with the sea shimmering in the distance, on which could be seen the white sail of a ship homeward bound.

Her mother in the happier days had been skillful with brush and pencil, and had taught the little that she knew to Hope. It had served to brighten many a weary hour for both mother and daughter, and after the mother's death Hope had gone on in her own way painting all the old scenes she could remember,often denying herself many comforts that she might buy the few touches of color.

Youth easily takes courage, and the picture brought new life to Hope. The next morning, with the picture tied up in paper, she set out for a certain picture dealer, whose windows had often attracted her attention.

She tried to still her wildly beating heart as she entered the store and inquired if they bought paintings.

"Have you one for sale?" asked the clerk, looking curiously at the shabby, slender figure.

"Yes!" returned Hope, beginning to untie her parcel.

"Mr. Darwood attends to that business," said the clerk, and before Hope could reply she was ushered into Mr. Darwood's office. A tall, fine-looking man arose at her entrance and politely inquired what he could do for her. With trembling fingers Hope took off the paper and handed him the picture for inspection. After what seemed to her an age, during which time she had vainly tried to read his decision in in his face, he turned and glanced at her with a look of interest. The pale, delicate face,with its look of trouble, told more plainly than words the need that had brought her there. Moreover, the quick glance had shown him that the brown-eyed girl was a gentlewoman.

"The picture is well done," he said, all the while thinking what lovely eyes she had and wondering who she could be. "We are giving five dollars apiece for such paintings and I will take this one at the same price if agreeable to you," he continued.

"Agreeable to her!" To Hope it was a fortune, and after being told that anything she could do in the same line would be paid for she went home to look and look at this money which had been earned so pleasantly and that would open to her a new way to earn an honest living.

"Jasper, where did you get this picture from?" asked Mr. Newton that afternoon of his head clerk.

Mr. Newton was the proprietor of the art store where Hope had sold her painting.

Jasper Darwood hurried to his employer's side to see which particular picture was meant.

"Oh, that one," he replied as he caught sight of the one the old gentleman was looking at so earnestly, "I bought it this morning of a lady' It is a very good one," he added.

The clerk thought he was examining it as to its commercial value, but Mr. Newton's next question showed this had not entered his mind.

"Is that the lady's name or the title!" he asked abruptly.

"The title, Mr. Newton; the lady's name was Grey, and——"

But Jasper Darwood never finished his sentence, for old Mr Newton had grasped the back of a chair and would have fallen but for the timely aid of his clerk.

As soon as he recovered he began to question Darwood. Did he know the artist's address? and question after question followed, but the clerk could tell him almost nothing.

"The lady had called in the morning and offered the picture for sale. He had liked the picture and bought it. The lady had given her name, but the address he did not know."

"Jasper, everyone in the store must be questioned," said the old gentleman, as he wrung his hands in evident anguish, and so the astonished clerk set about asking every man and boy in the place if he knew anyone named Hope Grey. It would have seemed ludicrous to Darwood but for the distress of his employer.

He met with no success until he came to one of the little boys who dusted the counters.

Yes, he knew a Miss Grey. She lived next door to him, and when his mother was sick Miss Grey came in and——; but Mr. Newton didn't listen to any more. Having checked the boy and found out the name of the street and number of the house, he hailed a cab and was soon on his way to the place.

It never occured to him that this might not be the Hope Grey he sought. Some instinct told him his long search was ended.

Hope sat alone in her little room, when she was startled by a loud knock, and a moment after the door opened and the long-separated father and daughter were face to face.

It took some time to tell the story of John Grey's wanderings.

He had not been killed in the drunken brawl, but it had been in this same place that he had first awakened to a sense of his terrible position.

To return home was dangerous, for the shadow of the law hung over him; but after amassing a fortune the longing for his family became so strong that one morning he set off for the East, ready to face the danger of imprisonment if he could but see his loved ones again.

There was no need to have changed his name. No one would have recognized in the fine-looking gray-haired man the forlorn creature who had crept away so miserably ten years before.

But the coming home had been almost useless except for the one result which had lifted forever from him the stain of crime. Every dollar had been paid back and he stood once more a free man, but of the wife and child he had left in poverty and shame he could find no trace.

The belief that both were dead had finally been yielded to, when Providence had placed in his way the object of his search.

The wife lay in her narrow bed, and that darkness could never be taken out of his life, but the child was left to him, and he thanked the Father of the fatherless who had protected her all these years.

The next day was Thanksgiving day, and no three people were happier than the three who ate their turkey in John Newton's home.

Jasper Darwood was there, too for the old gentleman maintains that but for his buying the picture Hope would never have been found, but Jasper Darwood knows that Hope's brown eyes had a great deal to do with the purchase.

Coal Cars Scarce.

There is a feature of the anthracite trade that is becoming of interest to every one, and that is the growing scarcity of cars. In spite of all the new supply that has been put in service during the current year there is still a lack of transportation facilities which, when the rush of trade comes in the fall months will make itself felt in no uncertain manner.

Many of the anthracite producers have prophesied such a state of affairs and have tried to put coal forward to certain of their stocking points in order to meet this condition as well as possible. Many operators are also of the opinion that drifting away of the mining population during dull times in the anthracite regions will make a scarcity of labor when the fall rush for coal sets in.

It is argued that both these features will play an important part in preventing an over supply of coal being mined. There are no stocking facilities at the mines and cars to load are a prime necessity in anthracite production.

Drink Grain-O.

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. 15 and 25c. at grocers.

HINTS FOR HOUSE WIVES.

A Few Goods Recipes and a Word About Seasonings.

This is the season of the year when house wives are putting up relishes for the winter, and we give here some recipes that are known to be fine by those who have tried them.

CHOW CHOW

One half peck of green tomatoes, twelve onions, one head of cabbage, four sweet peppers, two sharp peppers chop these and salt,them well. Let them stand over night. Next morning press out with the hands. Add three bunches of celery well cut up cover with vinegar, add two pounds of sugar, also celery seed, mustard seed, whole cloves, allspice, annamou bark, and tumeric. Mix all together, and boil for two hours. Pour into jars and seal.

CHILI SAUCE.

One dozen good sized tomatoes, two green peppers, two unions, one tablespoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, three cups of vinegar,one teaspoonful of mustard, one teaspoonful of celery seed and one small bunch of celery well cut up. Boil these for an hour and a half (or till the tomatoes, onions, and peppers are tender),pour into bottles and seal.

ANOTHER RECIPE FOR CHILI SAUCE.

Thirty six large ripe tomatoes, four red peppers, four onions, eight cups of cider vinegar, six large tablespoonful of brown sugar, three tablespoonful of salt,two tablespoonfuls each of ground ginger,cinnamon, allspice, and nutmeg. Boil two hours, bottle and seal.

The subject of seasonings is a most important one, and the Philadelphia Times. gives a few valuable hints:

When boiling ham put in a cup of black molasses, one union, a few cloves and pepper-corns, adding a bunch of hay; it seasons finely. Let the ham cool in the water in which it was boiled, skin, rub with brown sugar, and brown in a slow oven for an hour, basting every fifteen minutes with some of the stock in which it was cooked. Epicures like the last basting of sherry.

When boiling chickens for salad or pressed loaf, put in a quarter of a pound of good salt pork—it is an excellent seasoning. Shred the chicken from the bones, press into mold and pour the water (which has largly boiled away) over it, and it will form a delicious jelly all through the bits of meat.

Put sugar in the water used for basting meats of all kinds; it gives a good flavor, to veal more especially.

To give a fine flavor to corned beef hash, use good stock for moistening, with a pinch of salt. sugar and cayenne.

Three tablespoonfuls of freshly-made Japan tea, with a bit of nutmeg, gives an indispensable flavor to apple pie.

Boston baked beans can be improved by adding a cup of sweet cream the last hour of baking.

When making tomato soup, add a raw cucumber sliced fine, boil soft and strain with tomato. It gives a pleasant seasoning.

Add a cup of good cider vinegar to the water in which you boil fish, especially salt water fish.

Make snow cake with arrow root flour; the flavor is delicious.

Small pickles, olives and capers minced fine are an excellent seasoning for a salad dressing.

A fine seasoning for chicken salad is to slice an onion on the top of the prepared chicken and let it marinate two hours or more, adding, at the same time, a few drops of prepared cheyril. Be sure that every particle of the onion is taken from the chicken before adding the dressing.

Another paper tells us how to cook fruits, as follows:

Always cook fresh fruits in boiling water; generally but a small amount is required. If economy is a point to be considered, do not add sugar until the fruit is done, as sugar cooked with an acid is converted into glucose, and it will require nearly twice as much sugar to give the same sweetness to the fruit if added before cooking as it will if added when the fruit is done. On the other hand, if the fruit is one which you desire to keep whole, sugar added to the fruit will aid in this direction, as it abstracts the juice of the fruit, thus slightly hardening it and preventing its falling in pieces Fruit, in cooking, should not be allowed to boil hard, as hard boiling destroys its flavors by excessive evaporation.

In looking over some old recipes we find one for chocolate. Here it is:

The most delicious cup of chocolate ever drank was served at a luncheon the other day. The recipe for the mixture, which the hostess said was of Mexican origin, is four small squares of sweet chocolate heated until soft over a tea kettle or saucepan. Add a quart of milk to the chocolate and stir it smooth; then, while it is heating, break three eggs and separate the whites and yolks. Cream the yolks, froth the whites, and when the chocolate boils set the pot in a cool place, mix half a cupful of it with the yolks of eggs, and when well mixed beat them rapidly with the remainder of the chocolate. Stir in the whites of the eggs as quickly, and serve at once. The eggs must be added before the chocolate has time to cool, and must on no account be boiled after they are stirred in. Serve with salty, unsweetened wafers.

Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Cheaper to Pay Rent.

We have often heard the old saying, "It is cheaper to move than pay rent," but according to the following, this rule will not hold good: A decision recently handed down by the supreme court says that a landlord can compel his tenant to come to his office and pay rent. He need not look up the tenant and ask: "How about that little matter?" but can sit down, sue and get a judgment against him. A landlord telephoned his tenant last January and asked him to come around and pay his rent but the tenant said "come and get it." More words passed, with the result that both engaged lawyers. It has just been decided in the landlord's favor and it cost the lesee $200 to find this out.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich. tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters,she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work. This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by F. Potts Green, Druggist.

A Big Mortgage.

There has been entered for record in the office of the prothonotary of Elk county what is probably the biggest mortgage ever recorded in that county. It calls for twelve million dollars and is given to the Colonial Trust company, of New York, by the Pittsburg, Shawmut & Northern railroad company. The document covers fifty one closely printed pages, and is a mortgage or deed of trust upon and of the Pittsburg, Shawmut and Northern railroad company's railroads, properties, real and personal, and also all of its rights, privileges and franchises, acquired or to be acquired, as a guarantee or security for the payment and redemption of the bounds of said company, consisting of 12,000 first mortgage, five per cent., fifty year gold bonds $1.000 each, in all aggregating $12,000,000.

The Falling Leaves Give Warning of Winter

So the falling of the hair tells of the approach of age and declining power.

No matter how barren the tree nor how leafless it may seem, you confidently expect leaves again. And why?

Because there is life at the roots.

So you need not worry about the falling of your hair, the threatened departure of youth and beauty. And why?

Because if there is a spark of life remaining in the roots of the hair

A FAMOUS OLD LONDON TAVERN

The Cheshire Cheese survives to this day with the same habits, the same management and the same furniture that was used all of 200 years ago. It is a little old-fashioned eating house, to be reached by a long walk through narrow and devious ways, and a portrait of Dr. Samuel Johnson hangs over the spot where he and Goldsmith and Boswell and others of that immortal company once ate, drank and were merry.

The principal thing about the old inn is the famous pie or pudding which has been served to its guests at exactly half after 1 of the clock for more than a century. The recipe for its preparation rests in the safe of the establishment, and is a carefully guarded secret. As that hour approaches the room fills up with men and women quietly expectant. On the minute there comes down the stairs from the kitchen above a procession, headed by four waiters bearing great piles of hot plates. Two more, with bowls of fine steaming gravy, followed them. Then comes Charles Moore, the owner of the place, a man of education and refinement, and the descendant in the fourth or fifth generation of the founder of the establishment. To him is borne the pie, weighing a round hundred pounds. It has a crust three inches thick and it contains beefsteak and marrow and oysters and many other things, all blended most deliciously in one aromatic whole. Three helpings are common.

The Logan picnic last Thursday proved highly successful and enjoyable from every point of view. Hundreds of people availed themselves of the opportunity afford to spend a pleasant day in the woods, and all are loud in their praise of the admirably conducted outing. The members of the Logan Steam Fire Engine Co. desire to publicly expreas to the citizens of Bellefonte their grateful acknowledgements of the liberal and generous assistance so cordially and cheerfully accorded them. They heartily appreciate the kindness and benevolence of their friends and well wishers and stand ready to give tangible evidence of their gratitude and sense of obligation whenever occasion requires.

It was to be expected that during the rainy seasons, the insurrection in the Philippines would gain strength, for the United States is not going to kill, by disease, their soldiers, by working them too hard. The Filipinos have interpreted the inactivity of the United States troops to a desire to end hostilities, but this thought will be dispelled as soon as the new regiments now being formed reach Manila.

HARMONY REIGNED

In the Republican Ranks at Harrisburg Thursday.

BARNETT FOR TREASURER

Was Nominated by Acclamation—For Supreme Court Judge J. Hay Brown Had Very Little Opposition.

ADAMS WAS OPPOSED BY BEEBER

HARRISBURG, August 25.—The following ticket was nominated Thursday by the republican state convention: Supreme court judge, J. Hay Brown, of Lancaster; superior court judge, Josiah R. Adams, of Philadelphia, state treasurer, Lieutenant Colonel James E. Barnett, of the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment.

The only discordant note in the convention was sounded by Senator William Flinn, of Pittsburg, chairman of the anti-Quay organization in the last legislature. Mr. Flinn opposed the plank in the platform endorsing the appointment of United States Senator Quay by Governor Stone. A roll call was taken on the adoption of the platform as a whole and it was adopted by a large majority. The anti-Quay delegates generally voted against the adoption of the platform and the nomination of Mr. Adams.

Before the result of the ballot for supreme court was announced the friends of Judge Archbald, of Scranton, and ex-Attorney General Palmer, of Wilkesbarre, moved to make Mr. Brown's nomination unanimous. Superior Court Judge Dimmer Beeber, of Philadelphia, was named in opposition to Mr. Adams and received the votes of many of anti-Quay delegates. Judge Beeber was appointed by Goveanor Hastings and his term expires the first Monday of next January. He was not nominated because he was not in good favor with the friends of Senator Quay.

The nomination of Colonel Barnett was made by acclamation. The nomination of a supreme court judge is equivalent to an election by reason of two vacancies in the court and no elector being entitled to vote for more than one person. Aside from the nomination of the ticket and the adoption of the platform new rules were reported and adopted for the government of the state organization. There was a large attendance at the convention for an off year and the proceedings were quiet and orderly.

THE NEW RULES FOR THE PARTY.

The report of the committee of seven on permnanent rules was presented and adopted. The new rules follow:

First—That the chairman of the republican state committee shall be elected by the candidates nominated at the state convention and the permanent chairman thereof as done practicable after the adjournment of the state convention and shall hold his office until his successor be elected. If there should be a vacancy caused by death resignation or otherwise, after the meeting of the republican state convention and before the next ensuing general election, the candidates nominated at the convention and the permanent chairman aforesaid shall fill such vacancy, but should a vacancy occur after the next ensuing general election, then the republican state convention shall be called together by the secretaries of said committee and the majority of members of the said committee present shall select a chairman who shall serve until his successor is elected.

Second. That the state committee shall be selected by the delegates of the state committee in each senatorial district and shall hold their offices until their successors are elected, each of said districts being entitled to not less than two members: Provided, however, that where a senatorial district consists of more than one county, each county shall be entitled to one member; and provided further, that the chairman of the state committee shall have power to appoint twelve member of the state committee at large, who shall have the same voice in the management of the affairs of the party as the members selected from senatorial districts.

Third. That the time for holding the state convention of the republican party shall be fixed by the state committee and at least sixty days notice thereof given of the date for holding the said convention.

Fourth. That the delegates to the state convention shall be chosen in the manner in which candidates for the general assembly are nominated, or in accordance with the party rules in force in the respective counties of this commonwealth.

Fifth. That the representation in state conventions shall be based on the vote polled at the presidential election preceding, one delegate being allotted to each legislative district for every two thousand Republican votes and an additional delegate for a fraction exceeding one thousand votes, each district to have at least one delegate.

Sixth. That the state committee shall hereafter have power to place in nomination candidates to fill any vacancies upon the state ticket caused by death, resignation or otherwise, and the said committee shall also have power to place in nomination a candidate to fill any vacancy caused by death or resignation of any officer to be voted for by the electors of the state where such a vacancy shall occur after the regular convention of the party has been held and the candidacy is to be filled at the next ensuing general election.

Seventh. In all congressional, senatorial or judicial districts where the delegates or conferees in said congressional, senatorial or judicial districts are unable to agree and make a nomination fifty-five days prior to the general election, the chairman of the republican state convention shall appoint one representative republican from each county of the district who shall become a part of the original body and shall have the same voice in the the deliberations as the original members. In event the convention or conference is then unable to agree within five days, after the representative republicans from each county in the district are appointed as aforesaid, the chairman of the republican state committee shall select a representative republican in the district who shall act as umpire or referee in making a nomination.

This ended the business of the convention and the gathering adjourned sine die at 2.20 p. m.

"Every married man must ask his wife's permission to make a success." That was a saying of a wise old clergyman who knew that marriage was a partnership in the broadest sense, and that there can be no success in any partnership in which the partners do not contribute equally to make success possible. For this, if for no other reason, every man who is trying to climb the ladder of success should be interested in his wife's health. A healthy woman is always helpful. A tired, nervous woman, depleted in strength and depressed in mind, can contribute neither mentally nor physically to a husband's success.

The remarkable remedy, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, so strengthens the organs peculiarly feminine, dries up debilitating drains, heals ulcerations and inflammations, and cures female trouble, that the causes of ill-health are thus entirely removed, and the healthy, happy wife becomes a genuine help-meet to the husband.

"I was sick for twelve years, and for two years I had to stop work altogether," writes Mrs. Bell McCrobie, of Oakland, Garrett Co., Maryland. "I was treated by five different physicians, who pronounced my case Bright's disease, impoverished condition of the blood, and uterine trouble. I suffered a great deal with pain in both sides and much tenderness in pressing over the womb. I was bloated at times in bowels and limbs. Was troubled with a disagreeable discharge from the internal organs. I could not sleep and was troubled with palpitation of the heart. Suffered a great deal of pain in my head, temples, forehead and eyes, and I also suffered excruciating pain at monthly periods. Since taking eleven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I have enjoyed better health than I had for more than twelve years previously, and have gained in weight twenty-five pounds since taking your medicines."

Sick women can consult Dr. R. V. Pierce by letter, addressed to Buffalo, N. Y., absolutely without charge. Each letter is read in private, its statements held in sacred confidence, and all answers are mailed, sealed in plain envelopes, without advertising or other printed matter.

It is a good thing to keep Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets in the house. One Pellet is a laxative, two a cathartic dose.

The Wedding March.

The Bellefonte Amateur Dramatic club will present to the people of Bellefonte Gilberts bright and pleasing comedy drama "The Wedding March" in Garmans Opera House on Saturday evening, September 2nd. Rehearsals are going on nightly and the progress being made by the artists warrant the assertion that a delightful and attractive performance is promised the amusement loving people of Bellefonte. The cast is selected from the very best amateur talent in the town. Our citizens have had frequent opportunities in the past to witness the clever and artistic work of our theatrical people and they need no assurance in support of the excellence of the coming event. The costumes to be worn in the play will be elegant and in many instances elaborate, and the stage setting and stage pictures will be arranged with skill and charming effect. Don't forget the day and date, Saturday evening, September 2nd.

Those New Text Books.

The REPUBLICAN in its report of the proceedinge of the last Monday evening meeting of the local school board dwelt particularly upon the election of a teacher for the new Senior Grammar school, not because of any feeling for or against the lucky recipient of the board's favor but for the reason that this especial action of the board had provoked no little comment and criticism among the citizens of the borough. Our report contained no information concerning the selection of textbooks—other than the mere statement that a vexatious question had been finally settled—because we were not aware that the controversy between the members of the board on this subject was a matter of public importance or interest. We understood that the principal of the schools in his annual report to the Board of Directors advised certain changes in text books now in use, or rather in use during the past year or more. It may be he pointed out in his report that there existed no imperative necessity for the changes and additions he recommended but perhaps implied that the standards of the schools would be materially advanced if his suggestions were favorably considered and acted upon. At all events the question of new text books became a subject of considerable discussion and debate at several meetings of board. We quite naturally believed that the board would be guided in their action by conditions and circumstances of which we knew nothing, nor do others who are not familiar with the needs and requirements of the schools. We know nothing of the merits of the books selected nor those rejected. We only know that several book companies were represented at the several board meetings by their agents who pressed their claims and praised their wares in their best style. This is not a recent inovation, our school boards have had to cope with the same troublesome and perplexing question in years gone by and will be compelled to meet similar situations in the years to come. The American School Book Company secured a contract for the new books that are to be placed in the schools. We exceedingly regret that we are unable to inform our friend the editor of the Centre Democrat, and the public whom he suggests we take into our confidence, why the School Board purchased new text books and why they selected the American series. However we do know, concerning this "vital question," the board acted upon a recommendation and report of the Text Book Committee, to whom the matter of new books was referred, and of which D. F. Fortney Esq., president of the Board, is chairman. We, therefore, respectfully refer our respected contemporary to Mr. Fortney with the assurance that he will receive from him the full and detailed information desired.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

High Priced Chickens.

On Friday a case was brought before Squire Keichline involving the ownership of an old hen and brood of chickens. It seems that Charles and Earle Packer, sons of Richard Packer of Pleasant Gap, visited their grandmother and received from her a hen and chickens, on their way home with them while passing the home of Harvey Markle, they were met by David Rimmey who charged the children with stealing the birds, took them from them and gave them to Markle sending the boys home. Afterwards Mr. Packer, father of the boys, demanded the return of the property which Markle twice refused. He was then threatened with arrest of himself and Rimmey and still refused, which resulted finally in the arrest of both men for robbery. Messrs. Johnson & Taylor were counsel for the boys. The prisoners admitted the fact as above stated and the justice gave judgement for the boys. The costs in the case amounted to $40.00 which Rimmey and Markle will have to pay. A costly penalty for their unwarranted interference.

Guessing on Next Winter.

Weather Prophet Foster says the coming winter will be one of great extremes. A three weeks' early winter will be particularly severe. Following will be three or four weeks of moderate weather. A second winter wave will be longer than the first and will be noted for its blizzards and zero weather. A thaw will follow, thus keeping the weather wise guessing and suffering by not better understanding the fitful and never changing laws of nature.

Our Inexhaustible Spring.

Our Borough Fathers are getting a roast for their "tax" on water to the distressed farmer. It does seem pretty small business after all. Nature has been lavish in her water supply to the people of Bellefonte and of our abundance we certainly should give freely, especially when our fellow-citizens and neighbors are afflicted with a deplorable scarcity of nature's best gift to man. The whole trouble apparently exists in the fact that the full capacity of the pumps at the water works will only furnish sufficient water to supply the demands of our home consumers at this time and in some sections of the borough the force of water is inadequate for even the moderate requirements of the citizens in said localities. To permit non-residents to tap our fire plugs would, under such circumstances, be an injustice to our home people who have first claim upon our water supply. The unfairness and wrong would exist were this permission granted for a price per barrel no matter at what cost. If the entire capacity of the water works is sufficient only to satisfy the needs of the people of Bellefonte, as is stated by some, who one would suppose are in a position to know, the Council has no right to bargain for or sell to non-residents water from the street mains, Sup't Ryan of the Water Works states that the spring contains water for the county if necessary and thousands of barrels could be taken from it without diminishing in the least its abundant store. Mr. Ryan authorizes us to say that he will gladly assist farmers in filling their barrels if they will call at the Water Works for the water they need and desire.

WITH Bryanism feeding on Populism and calamity, it would seem that Kansas, with her 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushel corn crop, worth in cash at least $100,000,000, cannot be considered even among the "possible" States for the Candidate.

Now that the President, Vice President, and the Cabinet have contributed to the Porto Rican relief fund, the great "unwashed" can come up to the counter and deposit their pennies, nickels and dimes.

In the light of recent developments, the suggestion that we nail down some of our recent colonial possessions to keep them from being blown away, appears to be a good one.

IN HOLY BONDS OF WEDLOCK.

Mr. William C. Smeltzer, of Pleasant Gap, Weds Miss Sallie Garbrick, of Near Bellefonte.

One of the most pleasant events that has taken place in the vicinity of Bellefonte, occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Garbrick Wednesday, Aug. 23rd. The occasions was the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Sallie Garbrick to Mr. William C. Smeltzer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smeltzer, of Pleasant Gap. Miss Minnie Smeltzer, a sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Clarence Garbrick, a brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Professor J. Ellery Johnson, of Rote, Pa., played the wedding march which began at 11:25 a. m., and five minutes later the bride and groom, preceded by the bridesmaid and best man, marched out of the house and stationed themselves on the spacious and appropriately decorated porch, taking their places before the officiating minister, Rev. Leisher of the Lutheran church at Boalsburg and Pleasant Gap, who with the usual solemn and impressive ceremony pronounced the contracting parties, husband and wife,

After the knot was tied Rev. Leisher introduced Mr. and Mrs. Smeltzer to their many friends, who in return extended congratulations, etc.

The bride wore a batiste satin with spangled netting.

Promptly at 12:30 the wedding party with their friends adjourned to the dining room to do ample justice to a sumptuous repast that had been prepared. Nearly two hundred invited guests and friends enjoyed the great hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Garbrick on this memorable occasion.

The young couple received many valuable, beautiful and useful presents.

On Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Smeltzer left over the Central R.R. of Pa. for Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Baltimore, Washington and other eastern cities. They will be gone about two weeks.

The bride is an accomplished young lady in every sense of the word, and the groom, a school teacher by profession, is an energetic, trust-worthy and ambitious young man. They have the best wishes of their many friends and acquaintances for a bright, prosperous and happy life.

Among those present were the following:—

GRIM REAPER DEATH.

Three Centre County Citizens Who Have Answered the Final Roll Call.

The grim reaper death has been busy in this community for several days past and three worthy citizens have been called to join the great majority beyond the grave.

On Sunday evening between the hours of eight and nine o'clock David Shilling who for many years has resided at the foot of the mountain above Coleville succumbed to the infirmites of old age and quietly passed away. He had been ailing for some time and his death at this time was not unexpected

Deceased was born in College township and was 75 years of age. During the rebellion he served his country faithfully for three years being a member of the 148th Pennsylvania Volunteers.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Shilling and the following children: James, Amelia, Clara, Sarah, wife of Wm. Cox and Eliza, wife of John Davis, all of Coleville.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house. Interment in the Union cemetery.

MICHAEL LEBKICHER.

Michael Lebkicher, formerly of this place, but late of Boggs township, died at his home near Milesburg Saturday morning at 4 o'clock. Death was due to a complication of diseases. He was 67 years of age and during the rebellion served his country with distinction as a member of Co. H, 148th Pennsylvania Volunteers. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Emma Lebkicher and one son, Rhoades Lebkicher an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The funeral occurred Monday afternoon.

THOMAS AKLEY.

Thomas Akley died at his home near Snow Shoe Intersection Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Death was due to a general breaking down of the system. He was aged 63 years and is survived by a wife, son and daughter. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. Interment at Advent church cemetery.

AN EARLY MORNING WEDDING

James E. Reilly, and Miss Caroline M. Gross, both of this Place United in Marriage.

An early morning wedding which attracted more than usual attention among the young people of our town, took place Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock at St. John's Catholic church on East Bishop street. The contracting parties were two of ourtown's most popular young people, Mr. James E. Reilly and Miss Caroline M. Gross.

Although the hour was early yet the large church was well filled with the friends of the happy young couple. The wedding party entered the church promptly on time and proceeded to the altar where they were met by Rev. Patrick McArdle, pastor of the church who celebrated the nuptial mass and said the words which united two loving hearts for life.

The bridesmaid was Miss Rose Dusling, a cousin of the bride and the best man was Mr. John Reilly, of Muncie, Ind., a brother of the groom.

Both the bride and bridesmaid were attired in white muslin trimmed with Normandie lace and wearing large Gainsborough hats trimmed in white. The groom and his best man were dressed in conventional black.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's mother where an excellent wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Reilly left on the 9:28 train for a wedding tour to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Muncie, Ind. They expect to be gone about two weeks.

The bride is a beautiful and attractive young lady and is a daughter of Mrs. Barbara Gross. Her father was the late Philip Gross an old and respected citizen of this place. For the past 8 years Miss Gross held the position of cashier at Joseph's store, where she won a host of friends by her polite and lady-like manners.

Mr. Reilly was formerly of Muncie, Ind., but now holds the responsible position of foreman in the cutting department at the Bellefonte Glass Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Reilly were the recipients of many beautiful presents and were simply overwhelmed by the congratulations of their many friends.

A Delightful Musical.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Emil Joseph gave a delightful musical at her beautiful home on High street in honor of Miss Marie Reilly, of Muncie, Ind. During the evening many beautiful vocal selections were rendered. Miss Reilly herself entertained her friends with several lovely solos. She has a beautiful and well cultivated soprano voice and uses it in an admirable way. Mrs. Joseph is a royal entertainer and knows full well how to make her friends feel at home.

Attention G. A. R.

First trains will leave Bellefonte for National Encampment. Philadelphia Saturday morning September 2nd via Pennsylvania at 6-40, via Central Railroad of Pennsylvania at 7:10. One fare for the roundtrip. All old soldiers from Centre county are cordially invited to join Gregg Post in free quarters at Camp Sexton, Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. By order of committee. S. B. Miller Chairman.

PROTECT OUR FOOD.

The doctors inform us that alum is a poison, and that alum baking powders should be avoided because they make the food unwholesome. Prominent hygienists, who have given the matter most study, regard these powders as an evil that should be suppressed by state action. In Minnesota and Wisconsin alum powders are not permitted to be sold unless they are branded to warn consumers of their true character, while in the District of Columbia the authorities have under the direction of Congress, adopted regulations to prohibit the use of alum in bread altogether.

Are not the people of other states, as well as those of Minnesota and Wisconsin, entitled to warning of a danger which is apparently menacing them at close hand, and is not the whole country entitled to absolute protection, as the people of the District of Columbia are protected, by legislation which is entirely prohibitive?

Until we can have protection in the form of a statute, how can our state boards of health, state analysts or food commissions better serve the public than by publishing in the newspapers from time to time the names of the baking powders which they find to be made from alum?

Meantime, it will aid the housewife in designating the alum powders to remember that all powders sold at twenty-five cents or less per pound are of this dangerous class. Pure cream of tartar powders are usually sold at from forty-five to fifty cents a pound.

EVADED THE DRAFT:

A Penns Valley Man Utilizes a High Mountain Seat to Escape the Officers During the Civil War.

Between Coburn and Paddy Mountain is one of the highest and steepest peaks in that section of our mountain ranges. Its foot is the western bank of Penns creek the mountain facing Ingleby station, has the appearance of a pyramid, running to a point at the top, where will be observed an immense piece of nature's masonry, rounded and in regular layers of rock, the blocks running to a point forming the apex of the mountain.

This piece of nature's handiwork is alone of interest to the lover of the wonderful in creation.

During the Civil war one of the Eisenhuths, with no desire for shedding blood upon the battle field, did not answer the summons of the draft, and finally officers were sent to give him their governmental respects.

Young Eisenhuth, being a very wiry mountaineer, could climb this mountain angle over 45° with the ease of a panther and occupy a seat on the natural rock pulpit and be an unobserved observer of of all that was going on upon the earth beneath him.

Having friends at the entrance to his mountain narrows, Eisenhuth never failed to get "wind" of the coming of a squad in search of him; and, when they came he went up the peak and from his seat watched the movements below. When they departed he went down.

Thus he was enabled to escape his pursuers a number of times, until search was abandoned as futile.

This peak and its pulpit cap can easily be seen on the west side of the railroad as you approach Ingleby station. It is one of the most stately in the Seven Mountain range, and we baptize it Eisenhuth Peak.—Clearfield Republican.

—A Washington dispatch dated the 27th announces the appointment of the balance of Pennsylvania's quota of officers in the volunteer army and contains the name of Lieutenant George L. Jackson as second Lieutenant assigned to the 47th Regiment Infantry. This regiment is to be recruited at Camp Meade near Harrisburg.

—A blessing alike to young and old; Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Nature's specific for dysentery, diarrhœa and summer complaint.
